

MISS LUPTON TO WED CAPT. AVERY

Announcement is Made by Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lupton, of Lyndhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lupton announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their niece, Miss Elizabeth Lupton, to Capt. Clarence Renshaw Avery, U. S. A., the date of the wedding to be announced soon.

The announcement is replete with wide interest, owing to the prominence of the principals.

Miss Lupton is of a well-known family of Bedford City, Va. She is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Lupton and a namesake of the former. Much of her time since childhood has been spent at the handsome suburban home of the Luptons—Lyndhurst—in Riverview. It was here Miss Lupton made her debut at a brilliant entertainment which presented to Chattanooga society Miss Lupton, with Miss Helen Watkins, now Mrs. Gordon Gambill, of Texas, and Miss Charlotte Patten, now Mrs. Alex. Guerry, wife of Capt. Guerry, U. S. A., of Jacksonville, Fla. Since then Miss Lupton has enjoyed a brilliant social career and has been eagerly sought at all entertainments.

The bride-elect is a sister of Fred Lupton, of this city, and Mrs. Jesse E. Evans, Jr., of Temple, Tex.

Capt. Clarence Avery was a prominent Chattanooga society boy before the breaking out of the war, and received his commission in the first training camp at Fort Oglethorpe.

The wedding will take place either at Lyndhurst or at the First Presbyterian church, and it is thought the wedding will take place soon.

CHATTANOOGAN "CARRIES ON" ON LONDON STAGE DURING AIR RAID

Edwin Wilson Writes From Throbbing, War Enthrall'd Metropolis, Where Any Uniform, Save the Huns', is to be Seen in His Theatre Audience.

A Chattanooga, who though not in uniform is in intimate contact with the happenings incident to war, is Edwin Wilson. Mr. Wilson is playing in London with the "Lilac Domino" company, and is wholeheartedly doing his bit in entertaining the fighting men on leave or invalided back from the front, who seek some diversion from the "cares that weigh."

Mr. Wilson is staying at the Imperial hotel, Russell Square, and on writing home never fails to invite any Chattanooga who may be going over to "look him up."

Mr. Wilson makes a practice of writing every three days to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Wilson, of this city. Excerpts from recent chatty epistles are quoted below. His mother has been devoting much time to war work since the concentration of troops at Chickamauga began last spring. With the exception of a few weeks not a Thursday has passed that Mrs. Wilson has not visited a ward at the base hospital with flowers, fruit or magazines. Her sympathy and cheery greetings have won the soldiers' hearts, and she is "mother" to many of them.

London, April 9, 1918.

Dearest Mother—Before I begin the news of the day I must tell you, "don't worry about air raids." They are disagreeable, of course, and it is sometimes difficult to "carry on" at the theatre to the noise of rapid-fire guns and bombs, but we can only keep up courage and do our bit, small enough, it is true, to help those at the front, and we believe we have the Huns on the run now as far as air supremacy is concerned, and it is getting more difficult for them to break through the barrage and get to London. I have many friends here in the R. F. C., mostly Canadians, and they have some thrilling stories to tell. One poor fellow is in the hospital now, three toes gone, so it's "brightly" for him soon. Another, John Carlin, is suffering from shock, having been shot down. Mont Taylor, of South Africa, is minus a leg. Sidney Brown has been gassed. Jimmie Glenn is suffering with a hit in the mouth and is minus a few teeth, but has his eight or ten flying Huns to his credit. When I tell you many of these boys are barely 20 you can realize the situation. But everybody is cheerful, and things go on just the same.

It's "Tails Up" in the words of the aviator, and "Cherio" all's well.

We have felt the effects of the big "push" and the early closing law, but the management seems to think it will be O.K. as soon as people get used to it. Of course officers by the tens of thousands have gone back to France, and at present no further leave is granted. Still the city is alive with the uniform and to see the tea rooms, restaurants and theatres is to see any uniform imaginable, save the Huns. Americans are much in evidence now, and the Eagle hut on the Strand is always full. I was there yesterday. It is a magnificent place, with its great dormitories, rest rooms, dining halls, shower baths, great open hall, billiard rooms. Just across the Australians have the Aldwych theatre and nearby the Canadians have "Beaver Hut."

It is a sad sight to see the rows of ambulances meeting the channel boat at Charing Cross, usually at night, and see them drive away, each with four soldiers. Still the boys are cheerful and many are smoking while being attended by nurses and doctors.

Dr. Julius Leiber, who was with me in my first attack of appendicitis, and a very good friend of mine, is dead.

MAY DAY PARTY ON LAWN AT SIGNAL INN

The Signal mountain Sunday school children are enjoying a May party this afternoon on the lawn in front of the inn.

Preceding the program, Dr. Charles R. Hyde gave a short talk. He was followed by about forty children singing "America," accompanied by the orchestra.

A most inspiring feature of the afternoon is the "Goddess of Liberty" impersonated by little Miss Margaret Sanford. Her costume is made up of a large flag forming a train, and in her right hand she carried high the stars and stripes. Standing near her are eight little girls and boys, each bearing a flag. Another feature is the May pole dance, given by a group of children, with little Miss Mary Brown as leader. The splendid orchestra from the inn furnishes the music for this dance and plays throughout the evening for the party.

The last of the program consisted of several patriotic songs by Mrs. John Lamar Meek, who is a guest of Mrs. Loula Brooke, on the mountain. Among her selections are "Send Me Away With a Smile," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "A Long, Long Trail." The orchestra, composed of violin, piano and cello, accompanied Mrs. Meek. Neapolitan ice cream and cake was donated and served by the management of the inn. The guests were members of the church, and during the afternoon a number of notes up from the city.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR RED CROSS WORKERS

Mrs. Marjory Hoyal Honors the Women's Club Committee at Home of Mrs. Sanders.

The guests were members of Mrs. Hoyal's committee from the women's club which has been sewing all winter at Miller Brothers for the Red Cross. Their days for sewing at the club were Wednesday and Friday of each week, and during the winter they have made 555 garments.

The club colors of green and pink were carried out in the ices and mints, and the house was adorned with pink roses and green foliage. Among those present were Mesdames E. L. Underwood, H. H. Embrey, J. A. Fairleigh, P. K. Rosamond, J. G. Curtis, C. H.

West, C. H. Davis, Percy Jackson, C. F. Stratton, Fred Ferger, C. H. Royall, Harold Bonnie, Sherman Sanders, Ream, J. A. Jackson and Marjorie Hoyal.

S." (Bond), Miss Freda Monson; "The Clock" (Maxim), Miss Virginia Dobbs; "Tone Poem" (Allen), Miss Susie Mai Cannon; "Characteristic Sketches" (Alletier), Miss Bernice Jones; "Poet and Peasant" (Suppe), Miss Frances Dobbs; "A Twilight Reverie" (Ducelle), Miss Katherine Spears; "Do You Mind It, Honey" (Roma), Miss Edith Samuels; "Sliding on the Ice at Sweetbriar" (Crawford), Miss Mary Kate Whittemore; "The Glow Worm" (Oesten), Charles English; "The Rustle of Spring" (Sinding), Miss Gladys Fanning; "My First Music Lesson" (Thompson), Miss Virginia Robertson; "Philopena" (Heins), Miss Charles Prigmore; "Fantasia" (Weber), Miss Emma Kelly.

"Somewhere in France." I don't know any particulars yet.

London, April 19, 1918.

My Dear Father—Today is cold and snowy. For eleven days, with intervals, we did not see the sun until yesterday, and today has gone back to the usual London gray, cold, cloudy, and to me generally miserable weather. Spring has made a valiant attempt to show in the parks, but for the present is beaten. I must confess the London weather is just as bad as the worst I have ever said about it. Everybody says wait for spring. Of course, as there's nothing to do but wait, I am waiting. I ask when does spring begin and the folks tell me, "Oh, in June, maybe."

We celebrated the seventy-fifth performance of the "Lilac Domino" Saturday. Business stays good, but a falling off since the great offensive began is noticeable. We hope for an early decision and a return of some of the thousands of officers on leave. Uncle Sam is more in evidence each day, and I see now all branches of the service. My sightseeing has been confined to strolls to the theatre and back, but the streets are a never-ending joy to tell with the movement and color. There are many odd customs and I often wonder how two nations so close in speech, etc., could have such different ideas. For instance, all traffic here travels down the left side of the street. I've nearly gotten run over half a dozen times forgetting the change. Soda fountains are a joke, more so now than ever, as ice cream is forbidden, and there are no shoe-shining parlors. Newsboys are usually whiskered and get on with a funny experience came weeks ago coming home from Chelsea about midnight, after calling on some friends. We halted a four-wheeler, a growler they call them, and started home. The growler thought it was being run for it all depends on the news from France, and the past week has been very depressing. But we all hope for the best. I see each week many signs of the "American invasion" in the number of both sailors and soldiers—on the streets.

I am used to the early closing now, and if we are very hungry after the play can of Heinz baked beans and a few crackers make up a supper.

I hope you can get up a concert for the boys at Fort Oglethorpe, and hope you may have them come up to the house as often as possible. As I said before, let them have the run of the place, they like that.

With all the love in the world, your son, EDWIN.

P. S.—You must give my address to any Chattanooga who come over, with an invitation to call on me at the theatre. We are still at the Empire, Leicester Square. We may go later to the Grand, on the Strand, as we can always find out where the "Lilac Domino" is playing.

LOVERS OF "ALICE" ASKED TO MUSIC CLUB MEETING

A musical feast from "Alice in Wonderland," given for the first time in this city, will be presented Monday night on Mrs. John Lamar Meek's program before the Chattanooga Music club. The work of the quartet is flimsy in bringing out the humor and vivacity of the masterpieces of nonsense. The composer, Liza Lehman, has cleverly contrived to give an almost dramatic climax to the work by her treatment of the court room scenes with a seriousness worthy of grand opera. It is to be a veritable "Alice" feast—a sort of "mad tea party"—and no lover of "Alice" can afford to be absent from the meeting, to which the public will be welcomed for a small admission fee.

JUNIOR HIGH PUPILS PRESENT UNIQUE PLAY

"Sixty Years Ago in Dixie" Given Thursday Evening Before a Crowded House.

The playlet, "Sixty Years Ago in Dixie," which was presented by pupils of the second year class of Junior High school Thursday evening, was a decided success. Every seat in the auditorium and all available standing room was taken.

The stage was arranged to suggest the birthplace of Uncle Remus. An old log cabin with "Mammy" sitting out in front humming popular airs of the south gave a realistic touch.

The program represented an evening spent at Uncle Remus' home. Stories told by Uncle Remus, songs, square dances and banjo music were special features.

The closing scene with mammy singing "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" as all the little pickaninnies fell asleep, received much applause.

Miss Clara Whippa directed the play and also accompanied the singers at the piano.

Following the playlet the chairs were removed from the auditorium and pupils of the eighth grade entertained the ninth grade students. Many old-fashioned games were enjoyed by the young folks.

A silver offering was taken by a number of the boys, which netted over $15, and this will be applied on the piano fund.

Those taking part were Leonard Murray as Uncle Remus; Lillian Jones, mammy; Virginia Keating and Carl Mylius playing the role of Mandy's children, Jean and William; Gladys Boyd as Beadie. A double quartet was composed of Raymond Murphy, Allen Pollock, Shep Lauter, Frank Hudson, Agnes Waller, Catherine Carter, Geneva Smith, Annie McDonald, William Stephenson, Haden Gladys Green, Nannie Bohner, Dorothy Walton, Jennie May Clark, Mary Dye Van Ostrand, dancers.

Three Features in Single Suit

Not every street suit can boast three distinct style points and still deserve the coveted quality "tailored." This suit of French blue tricotine, sketched for Fashion Art Magazine, shows a coat that faces the world with a front that has the Eton cut, and then at the rear it changes to the very new position back, the long, straight panel, caught up and buttoned to the coat at the waistline. The skirt shows the third style point, a well arranged diagonal tunic.

(By Betty Brown.)

ture in its making, by Mrs. George Scholze. Equally good were Mrs. Dora Davis Allen's and Mrs. E. F. Wheeland's talks on the lives and arts of the most popular moving picture star actors and actresses.

An open discussion concluded the program.

At the close of the meeting a rising vote of thanks was extended to the president, Mrs. S. O. Bankson, for the business during the past year.
